Marvelous Monday

A long line of cars filed outside the gates of Camp Barnes on a humid Monday morning. The campers gathered their things, wished family members goodbye, and headed to their cabins. Once they were situated and their beds were made, they reunited with old 4-H friends while first-year campers started new friendships. After learning cabin rules, cabin groups were challenged in several competitive activities, “Minute-to-Win-it” style. Cabin seven claimed victory of the golden trophy by winning the final rock, paper, scissors battle, but sadly, the trophy was stolen. Later that afternoon, all campers headed to their assigned people groups. During people group meetings, everyone prepared their song, skit, and yell for Council Circle. Afterwards, many campers went to the pool, canoed, kayaked, played four square, basketball, or took a relaxing nap. Since everyone’s energy was drained, campers headed to the mess hall for a fantastic dinner including chicken patties and smiley fries. Right after dinner, campers returned to people meetings. Once everyone was prepared for Council Circle, they quietly headed to the waterfront for reflections presented by Sarah Snyder, Jenna Anger, Maci Carter, McKenna Breeding, Carter Bradley, and Emily Campbell. During reflections the song “I was here” by Beyoncé was played. After free time, everyone regrouped at Council Circle where first night traditions took place.

THOUGHT FOR THE DAY

“Legacy is not leaving something for people, it’s leaving something in people.”
BARNES OWL
DAILY REPORT

Toasty Tuesday

Campers rose as the siren blared on Tuesday morning to catch a spot in the long line of others waiting for a shower to wipe away the dirt of yesterday. Campers hurried to breakfast and in midst of their excitement, songs were sung and in no time, breakfast was served. After tidying up the camp, campers hurried to the white top as AM excitement began. We welcomed the new day with yoga stretches. Once the sleepiness was rubbed from everyone’s eyes, campers broke off into their assigned classes. After laughing and talking with our friends in our classes, campers hurried to the assembly. While campers were called up to get mail from their loved ones, other’s stomachs grumbled. With bellies full, campers headed to the white top, got into people groups, and two groups teamed up for an intense game ending in a tie of capture the flag. As we were already in our groups, we went to plan for first-year night in our people groups. The siren rang and campers either headed to their games or other activities for first and second rec. The night went on and first-year campers were excited to perform their skits for everyone in Council Circle. Campers then went to bed with songs stuck in their head from all of the people groups.

Wonderful Wednesday

Campers went to work on cabin chores and prepared for breakfast. After singing some wake-up songs, campers filed into the mess hall to enjoy bacon, egg and cheese biscuits, and fresh fruit. A short time later, people groups separated for duties and then went to AM excitement where campers learned line dances to “Trouble” for the dance later in the afternoon. After dancing, everyone departed for their first class of the day. Campers then headed to AM assembly where they received mail, and cabin ten was awarded best cabin. With stomachs grumbling for lunch, campers gathered to eat in the mess hall. PM assembly came and people group competed in a relay race containing a dizzy bat activity, egg race, volleyball activity, swimming, canoeing, and a three-legged race. Overall, the Bears took hold of first despite many setbacks. Excited to get working on the dance activities for the night, campers headed to people meetings to discuss their skit. Afterwards members of the people groups went to first and second recreation. Campers then got ready for dinner which was in the pavilion and ate ice cream. Party activities followed which contained the skits “Rent a Runway”, “Rent a Memory”, Rent a Curse”, and “Rent a People”. Excited from the party activities, campers danced the night away at the dance. Exhausted at the end of the night, campers headed to their cabins and went to bed.

Thought for the Day

“The goal isn’t to live forever, it’s to create something that will.”
The siren blared on a Thursday morning as the campers groaned to the sound of it. Campers sluggishly made their way to a delicious breakfast. Before coming to AM excitement, people groups broke off and helped clean up beautiful Camp Barnes. After this, all of the campers and counselors headed to the white top for an intense game of rock, paper, scissors smack down. When all the classes were over, campers headed to the assembly for mail, songs, and cabin check. After campers received mail, they headed over to the dining hall to eat. When stomachs were full, so were the clouds. Rest period began, but in the middle of it rain started. Campers proceeded to P.M assembly filled with activities to choose from. After people meetings, campers went to first recreation for games of four square, volleyball, and J.V. volleyball. Again, stomachs were grumbling and we all headed to dinner. Campers went to their people meetings and discussed their challenge and talent that they would have later that night. When everyone was done brainstorming and planning, they went back to their cabins once more to prep for the evening. Later at Council Circle, camper’s emotions were high during their talent songs. Campers made their way back to the cabin to get ready for bed and prepare for the emotional rollercoaster Friday traditions would bring.

Thought for the Day
“People will forget what you said, people will forget what you did, but people will never forget how you made them feel.”
As the last day of camp arrived, the campers woke to the sound of the siren. Campers were dragging slowly from their cabins, got showers, finished up cabin duties and then headed off to breakfast followed by AM excitement and classes. Lunch was delicious, and campers made their way to rest period where we all got extra sleep! After getting some much needed rest, everyone made their way to people meetings which was filled with teaching all the traditional songs, skits, and yells for High Council. After people meetings, campers got painted to support the volleyball game that included the Big Feet vs. the Voices & Echoes. The entire camp wanted the Voices & Echoes to win but got let down when the Big Feet took the win. Campers took extra time to look nice for the Friday dinner. After a delicious dinner that consisted of turkey, mashed potatoes, gravy, and rolls, all the campers made their way to the waterfront to take pictures with their dinner dates, as well as with their friends. Another people meeting came and all the groups were ready to start the night. After having reflections, flag lowering, and canteen, campers got on their bug spray and lined up for the night’s High Council. As the night was winding down, the emotions were high and the tears began to flow. After Council Circle, there was a slide show of pictures from the week and after everyone gave their hugs, it was time for the campers to get some sleep.

Rachel M.,
Hey! I just wanted to say that I’ve really, deeply appreciated the weird times and funny jokes we’ve shared. Don’t forget about the conspiracy theories about living at different times. Hopefully we’ll be able to stay in touch!
-Mianarai (Marinara)

Brandon,
I’m so glad to have met you in elementary school and to have been in the Moon & Stars with you! I know I missed a lot of years at camp, but I’ll never forget the memories we’ve made together. You’re the best voice, leader, and friend I could ask for man. I love you bro! To years of memories.
-Tommy P.

Mckensie & Morgan,
Thank you for sticking with me this week. We made some great memories.
-Kinley E.

Rachel M, Katie C, Emily C, Grace Y, Holly C, & Noah M,
Thank you all for making this week one of the most memorable. I’m glad I’ve met and shared time with you. I really hope we’ll all grow closer next year.

Mary Kate Kavanagh is 19-years old and a sophomore at Penn State University. She has been attending camp for eight years, and it is her favorite week of the year. She is honored to be selected as the Voice of the Big Feet people during her first year as a counselor. Mary Kate cherishes the friendships she has formed at State Camp and knows they will last a lifetime.

Echo Bio

Ashley Gouge was born on a hot July day. She is 21-years old and is currently attending the University of Delaware for Pre-Veterinary Medicine and Animal Biosciences. She hopes to become a large animal veterinarian some day. This is Ashley’s 9th year at State Camp, and her 3rd year as a Big Foot. She loves being a counselor and loved the opportunity to serve as the people group Echo.
